Welcome to the American News Women's Clubhouse, one of the city's hidden treasures. Over the years, this beautiful house has welcomed many eminent visitors. Also, the inviting surroundings and elegant atmosphere make every guest feel distinguished.

Just a few steps away from Dupont Circle, downtown, and Georgetown, the J.H. Cranford House is a four-story townhouse nestled in a quiet street on Embassy Row (located just off of Massachusetts Avenue). The house was custom designed and built for a private client by the architects of the Old Executive Office Building. From the exterior of brick and limestone with arched balconies, to the lavish interior finishes of custom milled wood, this house is truly a work of art.

The main and second floors of the American News Women's Club are available for meetings, events and parties.

Our main parlor holds 40 for a seated dinner (using the adjoining small room, 50 is possible) while the second floor can accommodate 100 for a stand-up reception. The space is perfect for wedding parties, rehearsal dinners, showers, engagement parties, corporate meetings and luncheons and retirement events.

Please call me if you have any questions concerning the clubhouse or event planning. I look forward to working with you.

Sincerely,

Randi Dutch, Club Manager
